Cuyahoga Falls Resident Suffers Fractured Skull

Five were injured, one critically, in a three - car accident early today on Route 30, just east of Taylor's Bend, when a compact car crossed the center line and slammed into two oncoming vehicles.

William Hudkins, 18, of Cuyahoga Falls is listed "critical" at City Hospital woth a possible fractured skull.

The driver of the car, Rodney John Lawrence, 18, is in "fair" condition with abrasions and contusions of the feet and face, while a second passenger, Richard Wittman, is also "fair' with contusions and lacerations. They also are from Cuyahoga Falls.

Hancock County deputy sheriffs said the Lawrence auto was eastbound on Route 30 when it crossed the white line and collided with a 1967 sports car driven by Ronald Gale Little, 18, of New Cumberland R. D. 1. Little was uninjured, although his auto suffered extensive damage.

Lawrence's 1965 rear - engine compact then reportedly collided with a vehicle operated by 24-year-old Phyllis Hughes of Al-

Mrs. Hughes and a passenger, Carol Nicholas, also of Aliquip pa, were taken to City Hospital, where they are both in "fair" condition with contusions

Cuyahoga Falls Resident Suffers Fractured Skull

Five were injured, one critically, in a three - car accident early today on Route 30, just east of Taylor's Bend, when a compact car crossed the center line and slammed into two oncoming vehicles.

William Hudkins, 18, of Cuyahoga Falls is listed "critical" at City Hospital woth a possible fractured skull.

The driver of the car, Rodney John Lawrence, 18, is in 'fair' condition with abrasions and contusions of the feet and face, while a second passenger, Richard Wittman, is also "fair' with contusions and lacerations. They also are from Cuyahoga

Hancock County deputy sheriffs said the Lawrence auto was eastbound on Route 30 when it crossed the white line and collided with a 1967 sports car driven by Ronald Gale Little, 18, of New Cumberland R. D. 1. Little was uninjured, although his auto suffered extensive damage.

Lawrence's 1965 rear - engine compact then reportedly collided with a vehicle operated by 24-year-old Phyllis Hughes of Al-

Mrs. Hughes and a passenger, Carol Nicholas, also of Aliquippa, were taken to City Hospital, where they are both in "fair" condition with contusions and abrasions.

Deputies said Lawrence's car first struck the Little auto, bounced off and careened into the Hughes car and then spun

Black calcite, a commor mineral that in the past always had been considered worthless, may be a significant new source of silver. Rich quantities of silver, invisible to the naked eye, have recently been found in the mineral. Laboratory tests of black calcite taken from Utah, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico have been found to contain up to 1,500 ounces of silver per ton. Interestingly, western silver miners of the 1800s often used black calcite as a guide to silver ore.

2 Projects Should Not Be Forgotten

Caught in the perennial squeeze between anticipated income and climbing expenses, Council was unable to provide funds in the annual appropriation ordinance for several worthwhile projects.

These include, among others, the updating of a preliminary study as the first step toward extending the Freeway from W. 3rd and Monroe Sts. into East End and the blacktop resurfacing of St. Clair Ave. between 6th St. and Princeton

Other needed programs come to mind, also, in the list that was shelved in the struggle to match income and expenditures. But extension of the Freeway and repaving of lower St. Clair Ave. certainly deserve high priority.

A study of the appropriation ordinance shows no unnecessary expenditures. Certainly it cannot be charged that two needed projects were shoved aside in favor of a "boondoggle" or a piece of political pork barrel rolling.

A LONG AND conscientious effort was re quired to assure that funds would be provided for essential services. The basic needs appear to have been met.

But the fact the St. Clair Ave. and Freeway programs are not provided for in the appropriation does not mean that they should be forgotten for the balance of 1967.

Income estimates can fluctuate above the expected totals just as readily as they can fall below anticipation.

By mid - year, or perhaps by the end of the third quarter, a reassessment of the city's financial picture well may show that money will be available for either or both of these projects.

Council should stand ready to undertake them when it is convinced the outlay can be made without jeapordizing essential services. With the practical approach that has been shown by both Council and the administration in recent years in fiscal matters, we are certain this policy will be adopted.

UPDATING THE Freeway study is expected to cost $22,000, which could be paid in two $11,000 installments - one in 1967 and the other

The St. Clair Ave. resurfacing has been estimated at $55,000.

Together, the two items would cost $66,000 in

It would be far better if the two projects were authorized in mid - summer or late fall, provided funds are available, than to allow them to stagnate unnecessarily until the next round of budget - balancing in early 1968.

Each promise benefit to the entire community - the type of program Council should seek to undertake when assigning priorities to all the requests with which it is deluged each year.

With a little bit of luck - and continued sound management - both could become realities la-

TV Networks Go Modern

Modern living has come to television. Networks are learning to live from cans

The strike by American Federation of Television and Radio Artists is forcing networks to dip into their canned tapes of previous shows to fill up some time slots.

Union and management negotiators have indicated the strike against the three major networks could go on some time.

This really does not bother the networks. After all, they can continue indefinitely with their full pantry of canned repeats. And the viewer is not bothered too much since most of the programs he sees under normal circumstances was made weeks ago. Television has deftly achieved an illusion of "here and now" through use of pre-recording sys-

There are plenty of tapes of old shows (some better than present programming) and old movies to take up the slack brought on by the National news shows are suffering most. Old reliable family favorites have been replaced with inept management novices, obviously out of their natural habitat.

One notable exception is Chet Huntley who feels the F'TRA is not the proper organization to represent newsmen and has disregarded picket lines.

But even the NBC evening news program has taken on a new look and sound since the strike.

It's closing now goes something like this: "Good night David . . . David . . . DAVID!"

This Is A New Reformation?

Catholic laymen in Chicago meet this Sunday to ask the hierarchy to share with lay membership the decision-making role in church affairs. The three-day spring meeting of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops opens in Chicago April 10.

What is happening in the Roman Catholic Church here and abroad is being loosely described in the periodical press as a revolution. Unrest would be a better word.

With several pointed exceptions, defection from the institutional church is not an immediate prospect, either on the right or on the left. But the free and sometimes hot discussion within the church - and in print - of issues of the day is evidence of internal upheaval.

Birth control, abortion, intermarriage, clerical celibacy, freedom of conscience and speech - all these and many more questions are being debated.

The trend in Catholic education is toward more lay participation, even toward lay control. The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University, proposed in January that laymen share equality with priests of the Holy Cross Order in governing that 124-year-old

The Rev. Paul C. Reinert, president of St. Louis University, disclosed that in the future the 150-year-old Jesuit institution would be governed by a mixed board on which Catholic and non-Catholic laymen would outnumber clerical members. The board chairman, with Rome's approval, will be a layman.

Earlier, Webster Groves College - near St. Louis -- had gone even farther. Its president, Sister Jacqueline Grennan, was allowed to renounce her vows to the Sisters of Loretto, become Miss Grennan, and stay on as the secular president of the college. A lay board of trus-

The Mafia And New Orleans

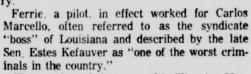

By Victor Riesel

DALLAS - Despite the histrionics of kingsized Jim Garrison, the eerie trail of the Kafka-like David W. Ferrie does not appear to lead to the tragedy of '63.

In 40 still-classified pages of the Warren Commission Report, Ferrie's path, instead, heads towards one of the land's most notorious of Mafia dons.

The Federals also charged him with attempting to show he was born in San Jose Pinula, Guatemala, by allegedly forging a birth certificate. Marcello came to trial during the week of Nov. 18, 1963. His learned counsel then was G. Wray Gill, who also spoke for him when he attempted to hit an AFBI agent at the New Orleans airport.

The defense needed an investigator and allaround handyman for some of this work. They took on a weird character by the name of Dave W. Ferrie. The American people are being asked to accept the theory that Adam Clayton Powell has been penalized just because he is a Negro. Not only have many demonstrations been staged by his supporters, but there are signs that some members of Congress are becoming worried over possible loss of Negro support in their districts unless they reverse themselves and vote to seat the Harlem representative if he should be re-elected next month. The fact is that hitherto, at least, Congress has not chosen to exclude or expel any members by reason of race.

Lots of persons are beginning to believe the excuse of racial discrimination being offered today is merely a means of covering up wrongdoing. In answer to the charge frequently heard that no white man has been punished, it is being pointed out that there have been cases in history, notable among them being that of John Francis Fitzgerald, grandfather of the late President Kennedy.

Mr. Fitzgerald had previously served three terms in the House of Representatives and later had been mayor of Boston for six years.

He was again elected to the House in November 1918 and began serving in March 1919.

Congress, however, appointed a committee to investigate his election, and in October 1919 voted to unseat him. The charge was that he had been illegally elected.

IN THE COMMITTEE report, it was asserted that he owed his victory to "the fraudulent votes of the liquor dealers, bartenders, and city jobholders illegally registered . . . and the padded returns of alleged residents in the cheap lodg-from taking office. There are two segments of opinion in Congress. One prefers to admit Powell and then administer punishment for his misuse of funds by requiring him to pay the money back to the government

Another feels that the judgment made a few weeks ago should be upheld and the language of the resolution-which says Powell shall not be admitted to the 90th Cosgress-should apply also in the event he is re-elected.

If Powell were not nationally known and a prominent figure in the civil rights movement. the tendency of many members of Congress, irrespective of party, would be to deal with the question of its merits.

But fear of a "backlash" from the Negro vote in other parts of the country has arisen.

ON THE OTHER hand, consideration has to be given to the votes of many people who resent what they believe will be a form of racial discrimination if Powell is seated because of his

There has been no clear-cut indication as to how the electorate as a whole feels about the issue. But many members believe there should be a record vote so the voters throughout the country can decide for themselves whether they approve of the attitude of their representatives.

Whichever way the tide turns when the issue comes up before Congress again. it may be expected that many a voter who doesn't usually ask for details about a congressman's record will be inquiring: "Did he vote for Powell or against him'

2 Projects Should Not Be Forgotten

Caught in the perennial squeeze between anticipated income and climbing expenses, Council was unable to provide funds in the annual appropriation ordinance for several worthwhile projects.

These include, among others, the updating of a preliminary study as the first step toward extending the Freeway from W. 3rd and Monroe Sts. into East End and the blacktop resurfacing of St. Clair Ave. between 6th St. and Princeton

Other needed programs come to mind, also, in the list that was shelved in the struggle to match income and expenditures. But extension of the Freeway and repaving of lower St. Clair Ave. certainly deserve high priority.

A study of the appropriation ordinance shows no unnecessary expenditures. Certainly it cannot be charged that two needed projects were shoved aside in favor of a "boondoggle" or a piece of political pork barrel rolling.

A LONG AND conscientious effort was required to assure that funds would be provided for essential services. The basic needs appear to have been met.

But the fact the St. Clair Ave. and Freeway programs are not provided for in the appropriation does not mean that they should be forgotten for the balance of 1967.

Income estimates can fluctuate above the expected totals just as readily as they can fall below anticipation.

By mid - year, or perhaps by the end of the third quarter, a reassessment of the city's financial picture well may show that money will be available for either or both of these projects.

Council should stand ready to undertake them when it is convinced the outlay can be made without jeapordizing essential services. With the practical approach that has been shown by both Council and the administration in recent years in fiscal matters, we are certain this policy will be adopted.

UPDATING THE Freeway study is expected to cost $22,000, which could be paid in two $11,000 installments — one in 1967 and the other

The St. Clair Ave. resurfacing has been estimated at $55,000

Together, the two items would cost $66,000 in

It would be far better if the two projects were authorized in mid - summer or late fall, provided funds are available, than to allow them to stagnate unnecessarily until the next round of budget - balancing in early 1968.

Each promise benefit to the entire community - the type of program Council should seek to undertake when assigning priorities to all the requests with which it is deluged each year.

With a little bit of luck - and continued sound management - both could become realities la-

TV Networks Go Modern

Modern living has come to television. Networks are learning to live from cans.

The strike by American Federation of Television and Radio Artists is forcing networks to dip into their canned tapes of previous shows to fill up some time slots.

Union and management negotiators have indicated the strike against the three major networks could go on some time.

This really does not bother the networks. After all, they can continue indefinitely with their full pantry of canned repeats.

And the viewer is not bothered too much since most of the programs he sees under normal circumstances was made weeks ago. Television has deftly achieved an illusion of "here and now" through use of pre-recording sys-

This Is A New Reformation?

Catholic laymen in Chicago meet this Sunday to ask the hierarchy to share with lay membership the decision-making role in church affairs. The three-day spring meeting of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops opens in Chica-

Unrest would be a better word. With several pointed exceptions, defection from the institutional church is not an immediate prospect, either on the right or on the left But the free and sometimes hot discussion within the church - and in print - of issues of the day is evidence of internal upheaval. Birth control, abortion, intermarriage, clerical celibacy, freedom of conscience and speech - all these and many more questions are being debated. The trend in Catholic education is toward more lay participation, even toward lay control. The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University, proposed in January that laymen share equality with priests of the Holy Cross Order in governing that 124-year-old institution.

The Rev. Paul C. Reinert, president of St. Louis University, disclosed that in the future the 150-year-old Jesuit institution would be governed by a mixed board on which Catholic and non-Catholic laymen would outnumber clerical members. The board chairman, with Rome's approval, will be a layman.

Earlier, Webster Groves College - near St Louis - had gone even farther. Its president, Sister Jacqueline Grennan, was allowed to renounce her vows to the Sisters of Loretto, become Miss Grennan, and stay on as the secular president of the college. A lay board of trustees will control the liberal arts college for women.

in 1 Pet. 3:15 that Christians should be ready to tell their reasons for acting as they do

If it is right to do a thing in religion, there must be some scriptural backing for it. The only way that we know we are doing those things that please God, is to be able to show that the Word of God authorizes them. If someone questions our practice, we should be able to give our reasons for doing as we do.

In our article today we would like to give some of the reasons that the church of Christ does not follow any human creed. The religious world has been filled with human creeds. For each denomination there is a different human creed to govern it. However, churches of Christ, do not have any human creed. It is our plea that all men everywhere

give up human ideas and go back to the Bible. The Bible

When Jimmy Clark crowned the tiny church with the steeple it touched

HERE'S THE STEPLE

Incidentally, I admire Jimmy Clark and I am interested in everything he does. When he brushes his teeth or rides his tricycle, or climbs the sliding board at the playground I admire his concentration and his careful workmanship. And when he cuddles into his Daddy's lap at bedtime or walks hand in hand with him up the church steps on Sunday he looks like an angel.

I think you have guessed it by now, haven't you? I'm Jimmy's mother - and a doting mother at that. I think Jimmy could accomplish just about anything . . . doctor, lawyer, merchant; why he might be President some day.

But whatever he becomes, I want him to be a good man; strong and true of character, firm in his principles. I want him to have God as his partner. That's why I go to church every Sunday and take Jimmy. It's the best insurance I know for a happy and fulfilled life.

Vatican City is Europe's smallest independent state. It is only about one-sixth square mile in area. Monaco, next in size, is about three times as large as Vatican City.

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for he building of character and good citizenship strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

When Jimmy Clark crowned the tiny church with the steeple it touched Incidentally, I admire Jimmy Clark and I am interested in everything he does. When he brushes his teeth or rides his tricycle, or climbs the sliding board at the playground I admire his concentration and his careful workmanship. And when he cuddles into his Daddy's lap at bedtime or walks hand in hand with him up the church steps on Sunday he looks like an angel.

I think you have guessed it by now, haven't you? I'm Jimmy's mother - and a doting mother at that I think Jimmy could accomplish just about anything ... doctor, lawyer, merchant; why he might be President some day. But whatever he becomes, I want him to be a good man; strong and true of character, firm in his principles. I want him to have God as his partner.

Archaeologists Astounded At Atlantis Announcement

By ROBERT POPP

ANTHROPOLOGISTS and geologists rushed to East Liverpool today from all parts of the world after a cryptic message was flashed to Washington from the U.S. Engineers' District Office at

"Lost Continent of Atlantis believed surfacing in Ohio River at East Liverpool."

The scientists trailed hordes of reporters and cameramen from newspapers, radio and television stations and national magazines who began to converge on the spot within hours after the government message was made public.

The first arrivals found they were able to charter cabin cruisers at $5 an hour to take them to the spot in mid-stream near the Ohio-Pennsylvania state line. Local historians recalled that the strange phenomenon materialized at almost the exact spot where Line Island was dredged into oblivion for the sake of its sand and gravel yield.

As more and more newsmen and scientists arrived on the riverfront, the price of boat rentals soared proportionately. The second wave of investigators found they were forced to pay $25 an hour to rent a leaky fishing boat powered by a five-horsepower motor.

The last available craft, a leaky john boat with one oar, went for $35 an hour in spirited bidding. And the price did not include motive power. A Harvard doctor of philosophy maneuvered the craft through choppy waters while the boat's owner, an unemployed shard-picker, acted as 'To think the English language was spoken and written 2,000 years before Christ and then lost when this continent vanished," the College of Wooster man exclaimed. "I thought it was an ad for gasoline," one of the little boys sneered.

A Coast Guardsman broke out a pair of dice and a blanket and started a game on the foredeck of the launch, extracting the reporters' lunch money with skilled palming of a pair of "This is a real floating crap game," he told the bystanders.

The serviceman produced a hot dog sandwich from underneath his cap, and extracted a piece of currency. "That's the Wurst National Bank," he explained. Outdoor Notes

Review Staff Member By HARRY STEWART

OUTDOOR ACTIVITY in all fields is gaining momentum daily. The warm weather has brought out fishermen, bird watchers, sightseers, picknickers and nature lovers in general.

Fishing stories already have started making the rounds. A large muskellunge was caught this week in a lake in the central part of the state by a fisherman using a small bass lure. This is not unusual in itself. What is different is that he hooked the fish through the tail.

Many persons have been fishing at Guilford Lake and several have already tried their luck in

The bass haven't been hitting, but suckers and catfish are biting in the creek. The area lakes have been producing some panfish and crappies.

Bass should start moving into the shallow inlets of area lakes this weekend or at least by next. Some activity along this line has been reported, but those catching bass are really working for them.

Bass begin to bite best when the water reaches a temperture of 50 to 55 degrees.

I RECEIVED TWO or three calls this week in regard to a "fish kill" at Guilford. The dead fish seen along the shoreline

Some dead fish can be seen along the shore of any lake in the early spring. The ice kills a few and the sudden change in water temperature accounts for others.

The water "cycles" in the spring, with the water from the bottom of the lake moving to the top. Sometimes the sudden change will kill some of the smaller fish, but this is nothing

Fish management personnel of the Ohio Division of Wildlife have started netting several area lakes for walleyes.

These fish are stripped of their eggs and then returned to the water. The eggs are taken to hatcheries for artificial propogation and hatching. These are used for stocking programs. The program already is underway at Berlin, Pymatuning, Mosquitoe and Milton Lakes.

Some of the adult channel catfish taken in the nets will be put in Highlandtown Lake.

DAN ARMBRUSTER, chief of the Division of Wildlife, says the fishing on Beaver Creek is some of the best in the state and says he can easily prove it.

He says there is a fishing spot where Cold Run empties into the West Fork of Little Beaver Creek just west of Lisbon that is "terrific."

The water in the pool is probably not over a foot deep, according to Dan, but he says he can catch smallmouth bass there anytime he wants.

He says you can take three or four fish from the pool on a rod and reel, then put in an electric shocker and turn up 20 or more. The spot is adjacent to a well traveled road, he says, and "Yet I have never seen any fishermen there." Go get 'em, fellows!

INTERESTED IN BIRDS? Now is the time to get out into the field, because this is the period when hordes of migrating birds leave their southern wintering grounds and travel north to the breeding areas.

Thousands of ducks, geese and swans are "stacked up" on Lake Erie and other marshes and ponds throughout Ohio. Several varieties of ducks could be seen this week at

In Pennsylvania, the Game Commission reports the same condition exists at the Pymatuming Waterfowl Area near Home is now a sand-bagged dugout at Vietnam for Staff Sgt. Raymond Jackson, a for-Wellsville man. It has held up well under two recent attacks on the compound at Lam San, he reported in a letter to his wife, Mrs. Francis Jackson of 433 Orchard Grove Ave.

Jackson, a career man who had been in the Navy and who joined the Air Force in August 1965, has been in Vietnam since July 1966.

A radioman who directs air strikes in the Bien Hoa area, Jackson is responsible for the pilots and planes which scou and bomb the Viet Cong villages

Jackson is no stranger to crisis. He is a veteran of the Lebanon landing and was in Cuba during the overthrow of the government which gave Castro power.

Jackson, who has been moved throughout Vietnam to serve the need for radiomen. underwent survival training at Nevada before leaving for overseas duty at Vietnam.

The father of four brownhaired, healthy children, Jackson is often touched by the sight of the many underfed. unkempt Vietnamese chil-

Of the Christmas 1966 "truce" he said, "Well, tomorrow we start our cease fire; I hope Charlies (the Viet Cong) is good. We can use a few days off.'

He was able to see a performance by Martha Raye during the holiday cease fire, he reported.

More survival school for more soldiers and longer training programs for young soldiers seems to sum up the suggestions made by Jackson.

Sgt. Raymond Jackson stands beside plane.

Though the morale is terrific with the men, the younger new arrivals are scared without previous war experience, he

In a letter he described the compound in which he is situated. "Where I am isn't too large. The group I'm with makes up an advisory team for the Vietnamese 5th Division. We number about 100 men. The compound is se-

"There are seven Air Force people here. Our job is to direct air strikes against Charlie, whenever he attacks some of our men or outposts."

"The air strikes help our people and we follow up with growing forces.

His wife writes several times a week about the experiences of the children and mutual friends. "Fran writes to me all the time; it sure helps to keep up with everything at home," he said.

In reference to questions little irony slips into Jackson's reply. "Tell Wayne there isn't too much fishing over here, but we have lots of hunting parties. Jackson related suspicions to his family concerning the people in the marketplace and even the woman who takes care of the menial work around the compound.

'This is a crazy war over here. Up north a ways they're really fighting and it's the same way in the south, but we're right in the middle and the Viet Cong who come our way are unpredictable."

"They do everything that you'd never think they'd do. Two or three of them try to attack an outfit and all they do is put us on alert. Boy, do we get tired of that - especially since the attacks usually come at night.

"Through the day these people are the civilians. The y talk to you and sell you goods. I even think the maid from friends about fishing, a is a "Charlie", but she does her work well, so as long as she doesn't shoot me, everything's okay.

Jackson and his family keep in touch with photographs too. Mrs. Jackson sends pictures of the children and comments on the everyday life to help keep her husband a part of the family, even though he's away from them.

The single opinion shared by many of the soldiers seems to be the war should be fought by American soldiers - but in Vietnam, not America.

Jackson, who is able to go to Saigon often, said "Well, I guess you known I'm down to four months; it won't be long now until I'm back home again. You know, the time has gone fast, although we are kept quite busy all the time."

Travel has always been a part of the way of life for the Jackson family which has been transferred from Maryland, Massachusetts, New York and New Jersey among other places. Jackson himself served on the USS Cascade, mine sweepers and other vessels while in the Navy. At home, hoping the next few months will pass quickly and without incident are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jackson of 609 Washington St., Wellsville, three sisters, Mrs. Marilyn Bole v of Glasgow, and Mrs. Peggy Kelly and Mrs. Carol Laneve of Harrisburg, Pa., and a brother. Naval Warrant Officer Donald Jackson, who is also a career officer.

Until then, his wife and children, now living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Burton of 433 Orchard Grove Ave., will write letters and send pictures to a husband and father, who though thousands of miles away, has never really left them at all.

Outdoor Notes

Review Staff Member By HARRY STEWART

OUTDOOR ACTIVITY in all fields is gaining momentum daily. The warm weather has brought out fishermen, bird watchers, sightseers, picknickers and nature lovers in general.

Fishing stories already have started making the rounds. A large muskellunge was caught this week in a lake in the central part of the state by a fisherman using a small bass lure. This is not unusual in itself. What is different is that he hooked the fish through the tail.

Many persons have been fishing at Guilford Lake and several have already tried their luck in

The bass haven't been hitting, but suckers and catfish are biting in the creek. The area lakes have been producing some panfish and crappies.

Bass should start moving into the shallow inlets of area lakes this weekend or at least by next. Some activity along this line has been reported, but those catching bass are really working for them.

Bass begin to bite best when the water reaches a temperture of 50 to 55 degrees.

I RECEIVED TWO or three calls this week in regard to a "fish kill" at Guilford. The dead fish seen along the shoreline were primarily shad.

Some dead fish can be seen along the shore of any lake in the early spring. The ice kills a few and the sudden change in water temperature accounts for others.

The water "cycles" in the spring, with the water from the bottom of the lake moving to the top. Sometimes the sudden change will kill some of the smaller fish, but this is nothing

Fish management personnel of the Ohio Division of Wildlife have started netting several area lakes for walleyes.

These fish are stripped of their eggs and then returned to the water. The eggs are taken to hatcheries for artificial propogation and hatching. These are used for stocking programs. The program already is underway at Berlin, Pymatuning, Mosquitoe and Milton Lakes.

Some of the adult channel catfish taken in the nets will be put in Highlandtown Lake.

DAN ARMBRUSTER, chief of the Division of Wildlife, says the fishing on Beaver Creek is some of the best in the state and says he can easily prove it.

He says there is a fishing spot where Cold Run empties into the West Fork of Little Beaver Creek just west of Lisbon

The water in the pool is probably not over a foot deep, according to Dan, but he says he can catch smallmouth bass there anytime he wants.

He says you can take three or four fish from the pool on a rod and reel, then put in an electric shocker and turn up 20 or more. The spot is adjacent to a well traveled road, he says, and "Yet I have never seen any fishermen there." Go get 'em, fellows!

WHY A CORK FLOATS

A Junior Editors Quiz About-

CORK

QUESTION: Where does cork come from and why does it float?

* * *

ANSWER: Pick up an empty glass, lift it up and down, and you will feel some weight. Now fill it with water and see how much heavier it feels. This demonstrates that water is much heavier than the air the glass orginally contained. This is why a cork (upper left) bobs around on top of the water. Cork comes from the outer bark of the cork tree and is composed of millions of minute cells which contain nothing but air. These cells are like a mass of air bubbles with tough walls which keep the water out. Since it weighs only one-fifth as much as water, cork can't push the heavy water aside to sink down, and so it rides lightly on top. Life jackets float and hold up the people to whom they are attached because compartments in them are filled with cork or another light substance, such as kapok, which acts in the same way. A collar of the floating materiaal will hold the wearer's head up if in the water, but the arms of a life jacket are left free for swimming or handling boats as shown in the picture. It is a good idea for young people to wear life jackets when in small boats.
